Reaching Out Through Creative Access

According to the Global CHE Network, almost 2/3 of the world's population lives without the light of Christ and as Christ's disciples we are called to love and action. Some people have not heard the gospel because of different circumstances, and at the same time, there are people who are just hostile to the gospel.

Though not easy, this should not turn away our responsibility as Christians. In a country where the population is predominantly Christian, there are still those areas that require creative access like the Kenyan Coast and North Eastern Kenya populated by Muslims and in the rural areas where the main stronghold is deep cultural beliefs.

Missionaries like Japheth, Ezekiel and Lucy and her team at the Coast of Kenya have been called to reach out to spread the gospel in these places.

Please continue praying for Kenya as we head into the repeat elections. Pray for peace, justice and unity to prevail.

The main hindrances to mission work in these areas is where missionary work is forbidden and the hearts of the people they are supposed to reach out are filled with obstacles, mostly because their knowledge of Christ is distorted, or inadequate. The other hindrance is poor infrastructure in terms of roads and telecommunication and there is also the financial aspect of this category of missions.

We continue to pray that God will open up the hearts of the people living in the creative access areas and that he will rise up more missionaries who will be brave enough to go into those zones. As for the missionaries who have already been called, we pray that God will continue being their strength, guide and protector through it all.

"The harvest is plentiful, but the workers are few. Therefore beseech the Lord of the harvest to send out workers into His harvest," (Matthew 9:37)
